Hi Mort

I forgot to follow through with Jo yesterday re the flowers for IN OTHER WORDS dang

it's in groupwise sent file from tuesday (remember you had a quick look at the message)

If it's all go (can you ring Jo please) the florist is my old cobber Louis at Genieveve (sp?) - look on your screen under E under favourites and her site is there.

Probably would cost us a bit of a packet - maybe $85 for the flowers and god knows what UK connections she has (check with Jan about florists).

Louis has the shop credit card number on file

4737442

also Jan needs a bit of paper from you re our trying to progress matters with barcode printer

Thanks to you all for the kind card re Dot. Feel slightly adrift this morning;

shop really felt good yesterday - you're all stars you know love

more like $100 in reality for bunch - interflora costs

Hi Jo et al

Prue de V and Gay were unable to sell IN OTHER WORDS and her remission is possibly only temporary so they're closing on the 12th. They'll be 23 years old. This sad news came from Jan Jackson here (who as you know used to work for Prue and Gay after he closed his rare books shop in 01). I thought it might be nice if UB Auck/Wgtn sends a stonkingly beautiful bouquet to them for their last week. Message might go:

Thanks Prue & Gay and clan - we've been so enriched by you over all these years - and good on you for giving Plymouth the best run from an independent bookseller they'll ever get. Lots of love from Jo & Tilly & Marion & Caro & everyone at Unity Books Auckland and Wellington (and the ghost of AP).

Actually that message looks a bit hmmm (also, don't know who knew them personally at your end) but it's something to work from!

What do you reckon?

Cheers

Tilly
