

From: Tilly Lloyd <tillylloyd@clear.net.nz>
To: <unitybooks@xtra.co.nz>, Unity Books <books@unitybooks.co.nz> Date: 1/11/2006 11:31:02 a.m.
Subject: draft xmas ad

Hi Caro, Jo, Mort

Feedback welcome. It would be great to find the old ad of Nigel's though - summer, road trip, children patting the water.

Keep thinking of the 'bugger borders' badge. On Sunday kept thinking of Bart - he'd have been 73? So good to see Judy yesterday; shame I'd forgotten to send the hours to Lyneir.

Shall we offer to do a party for COWBOY DOG?

Cheers
Tilly

Something else of interest:

Nigel wrote another xmas ad for us maybe 12 years ago which never ran (the couriers were even scarier back then, ay):

WE THE BOOKS of Unity Books hereby undertake to instantly configure ourselves in DIVINE CORRESPONDENCE to your who-I-need-presents-for list. Your needs are, we know, particular, but we do not promise rashly - as you will find, we are as diverse, as countless,
as brilliant as the stars of the firmament. Yes, hang a star in their Christmas this year - let us shine for you.

UNITY BOOKS

WGTN AUCTION

(should the festive season have left you too weary for travel to the stars, why not avail yourself
of our Room Service service - ring before 11am and for $2 extra our obedient staff will courier any book in stock, same day.)